WILLSON AND REPUBLICAN TICKET SWEEP STATE BY OVER 18,000 MAJORITY.

LEGISLATURE BELIEVED TO BE REPUBLICAN ON JOINT BALLOT INSURING BECKHAM'S DEFEAT.

Many Surprises All Over the State—Ohio County Comes Up With Over Six Hundred Majority for the State Ticket.

Latest returns from last Tuesday's election indicate a majority of 18,000 for A. E. Willson, Republican candidate for Governor, and the election of the entire ticket with majorities about 2,000 less. The Senate, on account of the hold over members, will remain Democratic but the House will be Republican, with probably enough to insure the defeat of Gov. Beckham for United States Senator. The Railroad Commission will stand two Republicans and one Democrat. The First Congressional district did not give half the majority the Democrats expected of it, while the second was also almost wiped out. The majority in the Fourth district will not exceed 500, and 6 of the 10 members of the House will be Republicans. In the Daviess-McLean Senatorial district for the first time a Republican has been elected, Judge Landrum defeating Henry Overstreet. Paducah, Owensboro and every city in Kentucky, of any size, except Lexington, will have Republican city government. The third district gave the Republican ticket a majority of nearly 1,200. Louisville gave Willson almost 8,000 majority and elected Grinstead Mayor by about 5,000. The Democratic majority in the Eighth district was extinguished. The 9th and 10th giving about 1,000 each Republican. The old Eleventh rolled up a majority of over 20,000 on the right side.

Both sides claim the Legislature on joint ballot, but the Courier-Journal says there is no chance for Beckham's election to the United States Senate. It claims that the Democrats will hold a caucus and select a new candidate. It will take the official count to determine which side will control the House.

OHIO COUNTY.

The result in Ohio county is very gratifying to the Republicans. A majority of 622 for Willson is the largest ever given in a State race, and proves that Ohio county is reliably Republican. Dr. Duff, for Representative, and Wm. Flenner for Jailor both have majorities a little below the State ticket.

The Constitutional Amendment was defeated in Ohio county by probably 1,500 majority.

The following table gives the result by precincts in the county in the races for Governor, Representative and Jailor:

EQUITY LIKELY TO MANUFACTURE.

All of Tobacco Of The 1906 Crop.

Negotiation Pending With Louisville Manufacture Would Eliminate Surplus.

The Green River District Tobacco society of the A. S. of E. is considering a proposition to manufacture all of its 1906 crop now stored with the Louisville Warehouse Co. This proposition has been under consideration by the leaders for several days past and was discussed at a meeting held at Turbin & Wood's factory on Tuesday night. It appears to be generally acceptable to the members of the A. S. of E. who have tobacco in the pool, and it is probable that arrangements will be speedily completed for putting the tobacco on the market in the manufactured form.

Negotiations are pending with a Louisville manufacture for manufacturing the A. S. of E. tobacco. The bulk of it will probably be made into chewing tobacco although a considerable quantity will probably be made into smoking tobacco. It will be put on the market with the A. S. of E. label on it and offered to the trade over the country.

If this deal goes through, it will practically eliminate the available supply of Green river tobacco with the exception of the 1907 crop which will be pooled with the A. S. of E. and that held by the independent growers. The A. S. of E. tobacco of the 1905 crop has passed out of the control of the committee and will doubtless be sold in a short time by the Louisville Warehouse Company.

The 1906 crop pooled with the Home Warehouse company has been disposed of in England, and the 1907 tobacco controlled by that organization has been sold to the American Tobacco Company, to be delivered from wagons at the Owensboro factory. With the 1906 crop now in storage in Louisville, out of the way, the A. S. of E. in Green River district would be in position to sell the 1907 crop direct to the buyers in Owensboro, or in any other manner that might seem best.—Owensboro Messenger.

LITTLE TIMBER IN KENTUCKY.

Yellow Poplar Becoming a Scarce Article.

First Report of the Government Forest Service Aid from The State.

Washington, Nov. 5.—The first season's field work in the co-operative investigation of the forest resources of Kentucky by the United States Forest Service and the State Board of Agriculture has just been completed and the experts who have been in charge of the investigations have just returned to Washington.

Good progress was made in the study during the past summer and all the territory drained by the Big Sandy and Little Sandy rivers and Tygart creek has been covered. This area includes the following counties: Pike, Letcher, Knott, Floyd, Martin, Johnson, Lawrence, Boyd, Greenup, Carter and Elliot. The work will be taken up again next spring and completed so far as the funds available will permit. The expense of the investigation is borne jointly by the Government and the State, each appropriating $2,000.

There has been an average of three men on the work for the past three months. J. S. Holmes, of the section of co-operation in the Forest Service, has been in charge of the study and R. G. Pond, Wesley Bradford and Max The latter was added to the force the latter part of the summer. Each man took a county or other specified area and visited the watersheds in his district. As much information as possible was gained from local land owners, timber dealers and sawmill men. Since figures relative to stand per acre were essential, many sample areas were estimated, care being taken to note the percentage of species as well as the total volume.

The object of the study has been to determine the present timber supply, the rate of consumption and other facts which may serve as a basis for suggestions and recommendations to be embodied in the report which is to be submitted to the Kentucky Legislature.

The investigation so far conducted has shown that within reasonable distance of railroads and floating streams there is very little good timber left, and yellow poplar is getting scarce all through the region. Ten years ago this tree was the most important one of the region, but now the cut of white oak exceeds it both in quantity and value. Many watersheds are practically devoid of mercantile timber, and many others are rapidly approaching this condition. Much of the land has been cleared for farming purposes, but owing to the steepness of the hills, which in many sections wash badly, and to the natural poverty of the soil, a large proportion of the cleared land has been abandoned, after raising a few crops of corn, and it is now growing up in briars and bushes, very slowly reverting to forest again.

This part of the State is on the whole fairly thickly settled, and the people depend to a large extent on marketing and manufacture of the timber for a livelihood. It is therefore highly important, not so much that the timber itself should be preserved, but that the forest lands should be handled in such a way that a perpetual supply of timber may reasonably be expected.

Mr. and Mrs. Griffin Entertain.

Mr. and Mrs. Z. Wayne Griffin entertained at progressive eucher last Friday evening. Nineteen games were played and a delightful evening was enjoyed by the many guests. Mrs. E. Birkhead won the prize offered the ladies and Capt. J. G. Keown won the gentlemen's prize. Delicious light refreshments were served. The following are those who enjoyed Mr. and Mrs. Griffin's generous hospitality: Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Barnett, Mr. and Mrs. Hooker Williams, Dr. and Mrs. E. B. Pendleton, Mrs. Z. H. Shultz,

Mrs. French Vickers, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Lee Simmerman, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Smith, Miss Margaret Gunther, Miss Hattie Barnett, Miss Mattie Sanderfur, Dr. and Mrs. A. S. Hallowe'en Entertainment.

The Arrah Wana Club was entertained on Hallowe'en by Miss Leone Maddox. The guests had the novel experience of being received by a weird ghost. The darkness of the hall was relieved by a ghost with a pumpkin head containing lights. The parlor was decorated with mistletoe and jack-o'-lanterns. Eight games of progressive finch were enjoyed by the party, after which de lightful refreshments were served. The guests of honor were: Mesdames Leslie Cooper, Z. Wayne Griffin, O. M. Shultz, E. W. Ford and Misses Bessie Gillespie, Eva Taylor and Ruby Davis. The members present were: Misses Zella Nalle, Elba Bean, Lillie Burton, Annie Patton, Kate Thomas, Effie Rinder, Cassie Riley, Hettie Riley, Pearl Thomas, Florence Jones, Debbie Taylor, Annie Moreland, Leone Maddox and Mary Keown.

NIGHT RIDERS APPLY TORCH.

Burn Two Residences in Trigg County.

Force Owner to Watch Work of Destruction—Motive of Raid Unknown.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Nov. 4.—The burning of two dwellings is the latest outrage by night riders in Trigg county. A large gang of marauders went to the home of Mr. Hendrix, at Tuggleville, and, calling him to the door, forced him to go with them and point out two tenant houses which belonged to him. When this was done both buildings were set on fire and burned.

Only one man called for Mr. Hendrix but when he came to the door, having slipped on his trousers over his night clothes, he was covered by several shotguns and ordered to accompany the band. Mr. Hendrix begged that he be allowed to get his shoes, and at first this was refused, but finally he was permitted to put them on, and he then went with the riders.

The riders then fired probably a hundred shots and rode away. The cabins were located within sight of the main Cadiz and Roaring Spring road. They were both unusually good houses, being extra large, roomy and well built, especially the one which was occupied. The motive of the night riders in destroying the property could not be learned.

One of the houses was unoccupied, and this was soon a mass of flames. The other was occupied by tenants, and the family were made to get up and move everything out of the house, when the torch was applied to it also.

The night riders are still persecuting H. C. Wallis, of Rinaldo, Lyon county. Last week they made a third raid into the neighborhood and gave people along their route orders not to buy merchandise of Mr. Wallis. They visited several houses just across the line in Trigg county. The first move against Wallis was in the fall of 1906, when a threatening letter was written to him from Wallonia. March 1, 1907, three hogsheads of his tobacco were rolled into the Cumberland river. A little later his barn was burned with 10,000 pounds of tobacco.

The riders also stopped all of his hands from working for him, and have crippled his mercantile business in every way they can. Mr. Wallis estimated his damages up to the present time at $2,000, and the marauders have not stopped yet in their persecutions.

RECORD BREAKING TOBACCO DEAL.

Home Warehouse Company Sells 1907 Crop.

Deliveries on November 20--Contract Prices are $9, $9, and $3.

Tuesday's Owensboro Messenger says: The Messenger is authorized to announce that the Green River Equity Warehouse company, better known as the Home Warehouse company, has sold its entire holdings of tobacco of the 1907 crop to the American Tobacco company. The contract in part reads as follows:

"Having pooled our tobacco of the 1904, 1905 and 1906 crops, both as members of the American Society of Equity and as an independent organization, putting the same up in strips and leaf and having been disappointed in the results obtained, we have decided that the pooling and holding of redried tobacco is not to the best interest of the farmer. On this account we have made the following proposition of our own accord, to the American Tobacco Company:

"The Green River Equity Warehouse company agrees to deliver to the American Tobacco Company all of the tobacco of the 1907 crop, which it now controls, or which it may control, to the Owensboro factory of the American Tobacco company on such other factory in Owensboro as the said American Tobacco company may designate at the following prices:

It is understood that the prices are well up to the market, being from $9, $9 and $3 down. All of the trash is to be sold at 3 cents.

The Home Warehouse company will show the contract to interested parties who may call at their office after November 7.

This deal is one of the largest that has ever been consummated in the Green River district and will be the means of bringing hundreds of thousands of dollars in currency to Owensboro for immediate use.

The Green River Equity Warehouse company agrees to furnish graders, and adjust all differences that may come up satisfactory to both parties. The deliveries will begin on November 20.

President Jeffrey, of the Equity Warehouse company, has called a meeting of those who have pooled with the Home Warehouse company for 1 o'clock, Saturday afternoon, November 9, at the court house. The next regular meeting of the organization was to have been held on November 16, but since the preceding deal has been consummated it was decided to call a meeting for Saturday. At this meeting pledges that are out will be received and the members will be asked to ratify the contract made with the American Tobacco Company.

"We have pooled between 5,000,000 and 8,000,000 pounds of the 1907 crop of tobacco," said an officer of the Home Warehouse company last night. "We have a number of pledges out and these will be brought in on Saturday."

Hillyard-Riley.

Mr. J. E. Hillyard, Fredonia, Ky., and Miss Cassindria M. Riley, of Hartford, were quietly married at the residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Riley, Monday, at 1 o'clock p. m., in the presence of a few of the bride's closest friends. Dr. W. B. Wright, of Central City, performed the ceremony in a very impressive manner. Mr. Hillyard is to be congratulated on his choice of a helpmeet in life's rugged journey. The contracting parties left at once for Beaver Dam where they took the train for Fredonia where they will reside in the future.

There is a bit of romance connected with the marriage of these young people. They met by chance on the train about two and one-half years ago while Miss Riley was in company with a crowd of Hartford people who went to Horse Branch to convey the remains of Miss Prudie Ford. Their chance acquaintance soon ripened to friendship, Mr. Hillyard visiting Miss Riley during the Ohio county Fair during that fall.

Notice.

To the farmers of Ohio county. You are called to meet in Hartford Saturday, November 9 at the court house at 10 a. m., for the purpose of pushing the work of pooling tobacco in this county. A good many men have sold their tobacco and it behooves the farmers of this county to get busy. The meeting will be under closed doors. None but those interested in pooling will be allowed.

CARRIE NATION AT KINGSWOOD.

The Famous "Kansas Cyclone in Skirts" Lectures to a Good Crowd in Breckinridge

People from Hardinsburg, Glendean and from several other places in Breckinridge county, went to Kingswood Thursday to hear Mrs. Carrie Nation speak. She delivered two lectures, one in the afternoon and the other at night. Mrs. Nation told the audiences the evils of drink, that are known only too well, then advanced her ideas as how to cut out the evil and build up the good which she partially does with a hatchet. During her stay at Kingswood she was entertained by Rev. and Mrs. Hughes, principals of Kingswood College.

Mrs. Nation gave a wait-a-minute talk here at the depot Thursday morning while the east bound train on which she was a passenger was at the station, and her impromptu speech on whisky and tobacco was a treat to those who heard her.

The first time Mrs. Nation ever used her hatchet in a saloon was the night her son, who was under age, came home drunk. She became so indignant at the saloon keeper, who let her son have the whisky unlawfully, that she and another woman took their hatchets that night and broke up the saloon. That was what started her, and it is enough to start any mother. Though the fat little woman, with black eyes and hair that is thickly tinted with grey, has been put in jail thirty times and paid $5,000 in fines, she has been victorious and will be until the end.—Breckinridge News.

MYSTERY OF THE AZTEC DIAMONDS.

Known only to the Warlike
Mexican Indians.

Supposed to be Hidden Treasure of Some Buccaneer of Past Centuries.

There is no more tantalizing legend of hidden wealth than that concerning the diamonds mines of the Usamacinta River, Mexico. At the same time, the diamonds themselves are so far from being uncommon that the actual existence of an important diamond producing district does not admit a doubt. The Usamacinta pierces the mountains of Yucatan through a series of terrific gorges with walls hundreds of feet high, comparable in sublimity and grandeur to the Grand Canyon of the Colorado. The point where the river emerges into the open plain is called "Bocadel Cerro" (Mouth of the Mountain). The upper Usamacinta has never been explored; but by treaty agreement it forms the boundary line between Mexico and Guatemala for a distance of 75 or 100 miles; and through this region the course of the river is purely conjectural. The district is the home of the Lancodon Indians, probably the most savages and warlike tribe remaining in North America.

Few travelers spend many hours at Merida, Sisac, or Balacar, Yucatan, or at Progreso, British Honduras, without being approached by some Maya patriarch, who, with great mystery and endless injunctions to secrecy finally displays an uncut diamond for sale. The Indians are shrewd bargainers, and never barter the precious baubles for a song, although they are glad to sell them for much less than their real value. Strangely enough, they utterly refuse to deal with the resident planters, traders, and managers of the henequen plantations. Probably they fear to cultivate the acquaintance of the residents of the peninsula for the reason that that course might lead to the ultimate discovery of the sources from which they obtain the gems. The captain of a vessel engaged in the sisal hemp trade estimates that from fifty to a hundred of these "Aztec diamonds" find their way to civilization every year.

When the vendors are pressed for an explanation of where the diamonds came from, their reply is always the same: "From the Lancadons, beyond El Boca del Cerro." Bribery, threats, intimidations, and even torture have been used in the endeavor to extract more explicit information, but without avail; and attempts to shadow the diamond sellers nearly always result in premature funeral for the would-be detective. Prospecting expeditions have been equipped to penetrate the wilds of the upper Usamacinta. Some of these came to grief in bloody encounters with the untamed Lancadons; others became entangled in the vast maze of tropic swamps and lagoon that lie beyond the mountain barriers, but none have ever found slightest clue to the mystery of the diamond mines. The Aztec diamonds are invariably white, of small or medium size, and nearly always flawless. To make the mystery more profound it frequently happens that the Maya offer for sale diamonds that have been cut and polished with no small degree of skill and accuracy.

That other the savage Lancadons or the semi-civilized Mayas possess the skill or the appliances to enable them to cut and polish the diamond, is regarded by many as incredible. These prefer to assume that the gems formed part of the hidden treasure of some buccaneer. That the Indians have discovered the secret hoard of one of the prime chiefs of past centuries is not unthinkable; but the hypothesis is spoiled by the fact that the Aztec diamonds were known even before piracy began on the American Mediterranean. There are well attested records of the finding of diamonds in various parts of Mexico and Guatemala by the Conquistadores. Moreover it should not be forgotten that the ancient inhabitants of Mexico had attained a high degree of material civilization; so it is by no means impossible that some of the best arts of the Aztecs may still survive in remote and unvisited portions of the interior wilderness.

Dragged on Cow's Horn.

A recent news telegram from Burlington, N. J., says: "Dragged about a plow after a cow had backed a horn through her hair. Mrs. Fred H. Wetteroth to-day had a narrow escape from horrible death. For nearly five minutes she wrestled with the animal seeking to disentangle the strands, and after the cow had bowled her over and was dragging her about the field she had the presence of mind to punch the animal in the eyes to prevent it from goring her.

Mrs. Wetteroth had been in the habit of walking through the pasture at Broad street and Washington avenue, and petting the cow that browsed there. To-day the cow in a playful mood, unexpectedly tossed her head and her horn caught in the woman's tresses. Infuriated at discovering she could not tear away, the cow started to race across the lot. The young woman had been badly trampled and her clothes were torn to shreds when James Gallagher, a neighbor, replied to her cries for help and saved her from fatal injury.

NO BURLEY WILL BE RAISED IN 1908.

Plan of the Tobacco Raiser May be Extended to the Dark District.

Secretaries of the National Tobacco Growers' association, now in session, show 600,000,000 pounds of tobacco pledged to the various associations in the country and only 200,000,000 not pledged.

A resolution was adopted endorsing the action of the Burley men to eliminate the 4 crop of 1908. This action will strengthen the Green river delegates to follow the same plan and may result in all branches doing likewise.

The convention also denied the right of the trust to go into the fields and buy and to control prices.

It endorsed C. M. Barnett, president of the Equity society, and pledged him the support of the association.

This decision of the Burley people may result in the growers of all the different types of the tobacco determining to follow suit. The question will be discussed by the delegates to the National Tobacco Growers' association who are in session here, and it is likely, according to an officer of the association, that some action will be taken before the close of the meeting on Friday. Allied with the National Tobacco Growers' association are the Burley Tobacco society, the Dark Tobacco society, the Green River Tobacco society and the Planters' Protective Association of Tennessee.

Wonderful Eczema Cure.

"Our little boy had eczema for five years," writes N. A. Adams, Henrietta, Pa. "Two of our home doctors said the case was hopeless, his lungs being affected. We then employed other doctors, but no benefit resulted. By chance we read about Electric Bitters; bought a bottle and soon noticed improvement. We continued this medicine until several bottles were used, when our boy was completely cured." Best of all blood medicines and body building health tonics. Guaranteed at all druggists. 50c. m

How Clean a White Straw Hat.

The following materials are needed for cleaning a white straw hat, says the Cleveland Plain Dealer: White soap, a quarter of a pound, oxalic acid, 5 cents' worth; hot water, sufficient to entirely cover the hat. A lather is made of soap. This is put in a flat bottom utensil large enough to admit the shape without curling up the brim. The hat is scrubbed the way of the straw until quite clean rinsed first in clean water in order to free it from the soap and second in a solution of oxalic acid and boiling water to bleach it. The hat is then put in the air, but not in the sun, to dry. Another method, especially good for Panama, Tuscan and Java as well as white straw, is to make a solution of one and one-half teaspoonfuls of ammonia to two quarts of boiling water. Dip the hat in the solution. Sprinkle sulphur over it. Soap well with a nail brush and scrub the hat, dipping the brush very frequently into the water. Rinse in tepid water and dry in the air.

FOOLISH FADS ABOUT GOOD HEALTH.

Some People Who Dose Them-Selves Without Any Necessity.

"Formerly," said a physician the other day, "people thought too little about their health. To-day many of them think of little else."

"The majority of laymen have now acquired just that little learning on matters medical that is such a dangerous thing. They study and exaggerate all the little aches and pains they suffer from. They catalogue their symptoms and present them in neatly typewritten folios to their favorite physicians. They take their pulses and their temperatures, and even those of their servants and of the unhappy stranger within their gates. Elaborate charts are designed to record their physical progress from day to day. They diet themselves on esoteric systems of their own composing. By turns they feed on fantastic fare and fast on principle. They exercise their muscles by the chart and develop their chests with dumbbells. They revel in drafts of fresh air by night and fresh water by day.

"These people mean well. They believe that nature is their friend and the medical art only the enemy in disguise. If people can't keep their own health, what can they keep? They argue. So they watch their symptoms as the cat watches the mouse. Every trivial sensation becomes a critical symptom of the gravest import. Their diagnostic power becomes intuitive. It possesses an imaginative, indeed a poetic, quality in no way hampered by the prosy limitations of anatomy and physiology. Their maladies are not of the baser and more trivial kind familiar to the general practitioner of medicine. They are diseases dignified by incomprehensible names—such dire diseases as any of the gods of old might have died of not unworthy.

"In a word mythological rather than pathological diseases are their pet ailments. Naturally no one knows better how to treat these imaginary complaints than their inventors. There can be henceforth no limit to the imagination of a man or woman who imagines that he or she has cursed an imaginary disease. The high priests of medicine can teach them nothing.

"A mind that dwells constantly on a disordered liver, an incompetent kidney, or a perplexing appendix, is in a parlous state. It will soon be known by the company it keeps. In other words the more an average healthy woman thinks about her health, the worse it will become.

"Some people apparently take the phrase 'the battle of life' quite literally. They arm themselves with death dealing dumbbells and spend much of their time in arsenals bristling with Indian clubs, foils single sticks and other strange weapons of offense and defense. There they wait the coming of the microbe—the onslaught of the bacillus. Not for them is the simple life. The complex apparatus of physical salvation is their only joy. They maintain their physical equilibrium naturally enough on a balanced diet, and their muscular development becomes prodigious. Their chests become capacious as war chests and their breathing as deep as their thoughts. And the microbes behold and tremble.

But seriously after all, a healthy life does not require such a lot of coaxing. The faddists we have always with us. Without them the gravity of the nations would be at least partially eclipsed. They afford the comic relief in the tragedy of life after the manner of the Shakespearean clown. They are our comic grave diggers. They remind us that we are mortal. It is only their fun. We are—even the most foolish of us—endowed with a modicum of common sense. Let us apply it. We need not all clutch at dumbbells as drowning men clutch at straws. We may breathe easily without giving heed to breathing exercises or fearing that because we omit them we are likely to breathe our last. We may banish all thought of our biceps and yet strike the bacillus a mortal blow when it comes our way. We may neglect to sleep 8 nights with our heads in a hurricane and be none the worse. We may eat a shockingly unbalanced diet with Lucullus and feel all the better for it."—Baltimore Sun.

Rich Men Who Were Poor.

Many of the nation's multi-millionaires were born at the lowest rung of life's ladder.

James J. Hill, ranked as the most powerful railroad magnate in the world, was born on a farm in Wellington county Ontario, seventy years ago. At fifteen he was working in the fields to support his widowed mother and as he entered manhood he was glad to get a job at $2 a day as a dock laborer in St. Paul Minn. To-day he can look out of the windows of his $700,000 mansion and watch the hustling of the men on the wharves where he had to hustle for $12 a week.

John D. Rockefeller, the richest man in the world, began his work career hoeing and plowing on the farms in Tioga county, O. He graduated from this to an office stool in Cleveland and the first large sum of money that he made was when he purchased a raft of hoop poles, towed it down the Ohio and sold it at a profit of $50. William A. Clark, Senator and copper king, sent a number of his early years at farm labor. For two years he was a school teacher in Missouri and then he pushed onto the West. After a spell of quartz mining in Montana, he finally struck it rich and now his fortune is said to be at least $50,000,000.

Andrew Carnegie was born in Dunfermline Scotland, and his father was a poor weaver. The first instalment of the many millions which he is now dispensing as libraries was earned in Allegheny City as a bobbin boy. The sum was $1.25.

It is also interesting to note that Edward Harriman, the railroad Napoleon now in the public eye in connection with the Illinois railroad, was the son of a New Jersey clergyman. It is said that his early training was shaped with the idea that he should enter the ministry.

There are any number of millionaires and multi-millionaires who had rich parents to start them in life. Pierpont Morgan's father was a millionaire. Chauncey Depew's parents were able to send him to Yale; the late William C. Whitney likewise had rich parents.

"CURSE LESS AND THINKS MUCH MORE."

"Hoodlums Who Make Inflammatory speeches are the Factors for Forming Sate Strife."

John Sharp Williams taps the coconut and draws the milk when he says that while the white, black, yellow and red races are not the same physically, mentally, morally, not in any sense equal actually or potentially and cannot be made so by platforms or laws, yet they are creatures of one God, and in the face of a great problem it would be well that all wise men think more, that good men pray more, and that all men talk less and curse less.

But wise men do as they are bidden by Mr. Williams. The well-meaning fool and the hoodlums who start riots and the hoodlums who make "inflammatory" speeches are the factors for forming face strife. The well-meaning fool whose misguided efforts are bent upon the solution of the negro problem in the South resides, as a rule, in a section of the North where as little is known of the actual condition in the South as the average American knows of conditions in the Congo. The hoodlums who express themselves in action are Northerners and Southerners. It is no more trouble to beat up a murderous mob in Ohio than it is in Mississippi. The hoodlums who express themselves from the platform or from their seats in deliberative bodies are too often charlatans from the South who belch fire and brimstone with no higher themselves, and who libel every Southern State when they cut their capers before high heaven.

It would be going too far to say that there would be no negro problem in the United States if the fool-killer did not shirk his duties, or that there would be no race question upon the Pacific slope, but a large part of the friction between the whites and the blacks and the white and the yellow races has been due to his failure to acquit himself gloriously.

A Booker Washington who thinks and prays does much toward lessening race animosity than a Ben Tillman who curses. Vituperation, even from the lips of virtue, rarely corrects the evils it condemns.

Indian Summer.

"About this time of the year," as the weather predictions in old almanacs used to say, "look out for Indian summer. It is somewhat irregular in its advent, coming a little earlier or a little later at times but it always begins in October and may run into November. It cannot be called a distinct season of the year like spring, summer or winter, being only a short-lived feature of the autumn, yet it is very well defined in the popular mind, and while it lasts, probably brings as much enjoyment as any other season of the year.

joyment as any other season of the year.

As the name indicates, the season is peculiar to the United States, and is best defined in the Northern states. It is not known if they have any corresponding season in the Southern states. As everybody in the central west knows, during Indian summer the atmosphere is hazy and dry the sky is red, the temperature mild and rain is absent for an unusual length of time. The hazy atmosphere is probably the most distinctive characteristic and the most difficult to account for.

The early western settlers, judging from the blueness or smoke color of the haze attributed it to the burning of the prairies by the Indians, and hence the name though the connection it not very distinct. But the prairies are gone, at least as far as extensive fires are concerned, yet Indian summer remains.

A scientific writer attributes it to the annual formation of what has been termed the "aerial gulf stream" or vapor place.

FEDERAL SUIT TO GET VAST TRACT.

Government to Prevent use of New Mexico Lands.

Petition Alleges Fictitious Names Were Used to Acquire Holdings.

The United States Government has filed suit at Alamogordo for the recovery of the timber lands of the Alamogordo Lumber Company. The government has entered a similar suit against the Pennsylvania Development Company of Albuquerque, which operates extensive tracts of timber land situated in the Manzano Mountains. It is stated that more than $500,000 are involved in the two suits. The Alamogordo Lumber Company is a subsidiary concern of the Phelps-Dodge Company the Eastern syndicate which owns the El Paso and Southwestern Railroad and the coal field of Dawson, N. M., as well as large mining and smelting interests in Arizona and Mexico.

Some novel points are at issue in the two suits. The lumber interests throughout the West will be interested in the outcome, as many of them occupy the same position as the two defendant companies in the matter of acquiring their lands. The petition in the case against the Alamogordo Lumber Company is voluminous, and is signed by Ormsby McHarg and Peyton Gordon, special assistants to the attorney general of the United States.

It is alleged in the petition that the lumber company through its agent, W. A. Hawkins, secured from the government commissioners of New Mexico the permission to select certain parcels of land on which were dense forests of pine and other valuable trees; that this agent at first tried to secure 24,000 acres to be deeded directly from the government to the lumber company and failing in this he secured the names of 163 persons, and through them and their applications he finally secured the possession of 23,571 acres, all or nearly all of which are covered with dense forests.

It is further alleged that each one of the applicants was informed that the law required his procedure, and after they had made their applications each for 160 acres, they gave power of attorney to C. P. Davidson of Scranton Pa., and that Davidson, through the power of attorney he held deeded all the land so secured to the lumber company, without any of the original applicants receiving any compensation whatever. The lumber company, in making payments on this land, at the rate of $3 per acre, paid into the territorial fund the sum of $70,715 and the various payments when made were credited to the individual names of those who made the original names of the lumber company held deeds executed to it by the 163 persons who had secured the land upon their application.

It is claimed by the government that the lumber company was aware of the fact that the lands contained valuable timber, and that this timber was worth at the very least $250,000.

These various transactions occurred in 1899, and the actual cutting of the timber began shortly afterward, and since

The petition prays for a perpetual injunction restraining the lumber company from holding possession of the lands, and that an accounting be rendered of all sales and profits of the lumber company during the period that it has operated the lands and that the deeds to the lands be declared null and void and the land revert to the government.

The petition gives the name of the 163 men who made the original applications for the purchase of the land. Most of them live in Scranton, Pa. The basis of the government's claim is that unlawful means were used in securing possession of the lands, and that the territorial board had no right to usurp authority or execute final action in the matter as the act of Congress intended that these public lands should be merely held in trust by the territorial for the benefit of the various territorial institutions.

The Alamogordo Lumber Company also owns a large area of timber lands which were secured by placing scrip upon the lands the scrip having been purchased at private sale.

DOCTORS' MISTAKES

Are said often to be buried six feet under ground. But many times women call on their family physicians, suffering, as they imagine, one from dyspepsia, another from heart disease, another from liver or kidney disease, another from nervous prostration, another with pain here and there, and in this way they present alike to themselves and their easy-going or over-busy doctor, separate diseases, for which he, assuming them to be such, prescribes his pills and potions. In reality, they are all only symptoms caused by some uterine disease. The physician, ignorant of the cause of suffering, keeps up his treatment until large bills are made. The suffering patient gets no better, in reality, of the wrong treatment, but probably worse. A proper medicine like Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, directed to the cause would have entirely removed the disease, thereby dispelling all those distressing symptoms, and instituting comfort instead of prolonged misery. It has been well said, that "a disease known is half cured."

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is a scientific medicine, carefully devised by an experienced and skillful physician, and adapted to woman's delicate system. It is made of native American medicinal roots and is perfectly harmless in its effects in any condition of the female system.

As a powerful invigorating tonic "Favorite Prescription" imparts strength to the whole system and to the organs distinctly feminine in particular. For overworked, "worn-out," run-down, debilitated teachers, milliners, dressmakers, seamstresses, "shop-girls," house-keepers, nursing mothers, and feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon, being unequalled as an appetizing cordial and restorative tonic.

As a soothing and strengthening nerve "Favorite Prescription" is unequalled and is invaluable in allaying and subduing nervous excitability, irritability, nervous exhaustion, nervous prostration, neuralgia, hysteria, spasms, St. Vitus's dance, and other distressing nervous symptoms commonly attendant upon functional and organic disease of the uterus. It induces refreshing sleep and relieves mental anxiety and despondency. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets invigorate the stomach, liver and bowels. One to three a dose. Easy to take as candy.

TEN THOUSAND TROOPS NEEDED.

Defenses are said to be Facing The Most Serious Conditions In Years.

The coast artillery of the army is in a bad way, according to a statement issued yesterday from the headquarters of the Artillery Corps. The statement is headed: "Recruits wanted—10,000 able-bodied men in the coast artillery; $13 a month with board and lodging offered."

The difficulties in getting men for the coast artillery are set forth in the statement with a remarkable degree of frankness. It says in part:

"The coast defenses of the United States are facing the most serious condition that has come up in recent years. Reports received by the War Department show that with an authorized force of 19,331 men the coast artillery on October 15 was able to muster only 9,625. Ten thousand recruits at $13 a month and allowances are needed to fill the ranks. The question is where to get them. An official report prepared last year in connection with the artillery increase bill showed that the actual strength of the coast artillery was 11,450 on October 15, 1906, and Congress passed the bill authorizing the addition of 5,000 men but not only have the officials of the army failed to get these extra 5,000 men, but they have lost 2000 of the men they had before."

"Every month reports are received of men quitting the coast artillery to accept more lucrative positions in civil life. Men of five, ten, fifteen years service; privates, Sergeants, First Sergeants non-commissioned staff officers are leaving by the hundreds. Their electrical and mechanical training in the coast artillery especially fits them for good jobs in civil life."

The statement points out the advantages of civil employees of the army over soldiers. These civilians make from $15 to $125 a month with rations, quarters and many other things free work eight hours a day, are subject to no orders and quit their employment when they feel like it.

"The soldiers won't stand for it," says the statement, "and are quitting like rats leaving a leaky ship. Coast artillery companies that had 100 men five years ago now have 25 or 30. One officer reported that if he filled the vacancies among his noncommissioned officers he would have no privates. On account of the absence of men on special duty or sick, one company turned out one officer and one private. Many companies have had to suspend drill."

The difficulty of getting officers is virtually as great.

"For the first time in the history of the army," says the statement, vacancies in the grade of second lieutenant are going begging. Invitations were sent to the residents of 125 technical schools and colleges to send in the name of graduates who desired second lieutenantcies in the coast artillery."

That was six months ago, and not a single name has been submitted. Eighty-five vacancies in the grade of second lieutenant exist to-day, and there are only about 20 applications on file. Commenting on this condition the statement says: "Young men prefer to remain in civil life and share in the great prosperity of the country rather than come into army on less pay and slow promotion."

Canada and Free-Trade.

The transformation worked in Canada by the adoption of Protection is presented to England by the "Outlook" as a striking object lesson. The Journal says: "When the American reciprocity treat was abrogated in 1866, really in the hope that Canada would be compelled to join the Union the market for Canadian produce was restricted and efforts were made to employ the released capital in the manufacture of goods for the home consumer. But in a few years the American manufacturer began to use Canada as a dumping ground, and his European rivals followed suit, and the era of soup kitchens began in 1873 to culminate three years later in a period of deep industrial depression, ruin for employers and starvation for their employees, and universal panic. Then Sir John Macdonald received from the electorate a mandate to fight Tariffs with Tariffs, his "National Policy" was applied to the creation of a Dominion self-supporting and self-contained so far as possible, there was no more need for soup kitchens, and even the necessity of establishing a poor law system was avoided. Since then all classes of the Canadian community have been prosperous—even when money was scarce, wealth was plentiful—and the Canadian working man despite Mr. Keir Hardie's random assertions, does not live 'upon the limit of subsistence,' but is able to keep himself and his family comfortable and in time save enough to raise himself above the plane of the wage earners. To-day Canada is a country of but a few millionaires and countless competence, where any able-bodied able-minded man can achieve independence before he is forty years of age."—London (Eng.) Globe.

DARK TOBACCO CROP SOLD FOR $1,280,000.

Stemming District Association Makes Big Deal Average Price Eight Cents.

Henderson, Ky., Oct. 31.—The Stemming District Tobacco Association today consummated a deal whereby the Imperial Tobacco Company will become possessor of the 1907 tobacco crop of 16,000,000 pounds. The price to be paid in round numbers is $1,280,000 or about an average of eight and a fraction cents a pound. This tobacco will come from the five counties, Crittenden, Webster, Hopkins, Union and Henderson.

The Executive Committee of the association has appointed graders for the various factories at which the tobacco will be delivered and prices will be paid for each of the four grades as follows: First grade, $10, $10 and $4; second grade, $9, $9 and $3; third grade, $8, $8, and $2; fourth grade $7, $7 and $2. This means much ready cash for the tobacco growers of the stemming district, and which they will get as the deliveries are made. The deal was made through Edwin Hodge, manager for the Imperial at this point with J. Stokes Taylor conducting the negotiations on behalf of the association.

The 1906 crop is as yet in part unsold. The association put up about 11,000,000 and after selling two factories the association now has of this crop 5,000,000 pounds of strip which is held at about $800,000. Negotiations are now pending for the sale of this balance of the 1906 crop. There is much joy among the growers and the members of the association.

The Postmaster of Gasconade, Mo., Daniel A. Bugh, says of DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills, "I am doing so well, and improving so fast in health, that I cannot say too much for your Kidney & Bladder Pills. I feel like a new man." DeWitt's Kidney and Bladder Pills are sold by all druggists.

Gold Nugget Worth $900.

The largest nugget ever brought out of the Copper River district is lodged in the safe of the Arlington Hotel. The nugget is the property of Dan Kain, who made a rich strike in the Shushinta district. Kain brought the nugget down with him from Alaska, together with a considerable number of smaller nuggets and gold dust, estimated at various amounts ranging in to the hundreds of thousands of dollars by Kain's acquaintances, but the exact amount of which Kain refuses to disclose.

This particular nugget weighs fifty-one ounces and is pronounced by those who have seen it to be one of the handsomest ever brought out of Alaska. Kain estimates it to be worth about $18 an ounce, which would bring its value to something over $900.—Seattle Post-Intelligencer.

THE ELECTION.

The result of the battle of ballots in Kentucky last Tuesday is the complete destruction of the Frankfort State machine, which has run things with a high hand for almost eight years. Thousands of patriotic, honest Democrats who are for fair dealing, assisted in the overthrow of the combine, which had seized upon the name and emblem of Democracy appropriating it to their own personal advantage. All honor to the men who placed duty to State above party fealty in this fight of the people. Mr. Willson's appeals to Democrats were not in vain. A great victory has been won, the results of which will be far reaching. It means a new era for Kentucky. It means freeing of our charitable institutions and our school system from politics. It means a better and more comprehensive tax system. It means that all men, of whatever nationality, politics, or creed, are to stand on an equal footing before the law. If it does not mean these things, it does not mean anything. Republicans will be on trial, and they have a great opportunity. If they measure up to it, they will be supported by the people. If they do not they will soon meet the fate which has been meted out to those who are now in control of the State.

Some of the causes for this overwhelming defeat of the ring may be mentioned. First of all is their utter disregard for the rights of their fellow Democrats as well as Republicans, as evidenced by the snap fraudulent primary last year. The evidence of graft on all sides at Frankfort and in the principal city of the State. The creation of needless offices and raising of salaries. The notorious gerrymander of the Congressional and Legislative districts. The passage of the odious revenue and registration certificate laws, and last but not least their attempt at double dealing on the temperance question. All of these should serve as flaming danger signals to the Republican party. It has been proven that even in Kentucky mere party name will no longer lead a majority of her voters, following blindly after corruption, deceit, self-ambition, bad government and total disregard for the interests of the people. It is not in our heart, and never was, to crow over a defeated antagonist. We remember that it is not the Democratic party so much which has been defeated. It is rather a rebuke for the men who have temporarily, by abuse of power, enthroned themselves in that party, and a defeat of the things for which they stood. We want our Democratic friends, no matter whom they supported, to feel that Mr. Willson will be their Governor as well as ours, and that their interests and civil rights will be as safe as if Mr. Hager had been elected. The election is over, with its strife and bickerings. Let us set our faces toward the future and make of Kentucky what she deserves to be, not only the best State in the Union, but the best governed.

The election in Ohio county, under the agreement of the party managers, was an ideal one. No votes were purchased by either side, and it was a raw day for the "floater." He either voted of his own volition or went home empty handed. The Republican organization was in good shape and the vote was well gotten out through the efforts of Chairman E. M. Woodward and Secretary C. E. Smith. In this connection we feel it is but just to say that the head of the Democratic organization Hon. C. M. Crowe carried out his agreement to the letter so far as we have been able to learn. He is an honest worthy foe, man who did his best for his party in an honorable, able manner and it is not his fault that his cause made no better showing in Ohio county. Let both parties continue to be manned by such worthy men and let us continue to have pure elections in our county.

For instruction in the art of playing "both ends against the middle," apply to Henry B. Hines, at Frankfort, for next thirty days. After then, at Bowling Green, Ky.

President Roosevelt has managed to crowd more good things into his 49 years of existence than any man of modern times.

The visit of Vice President Fairbanks to Kentucky seems to have borne more fruit than Bryan's trip.

Gov. Hughes insists that all abuses in New York must be stamped out. Wonder if he will move Wall street.

"The market has 'pinched' Harri-man. That is what the people have been demanding for a long time.

In a recent baseball game Justice Harlan made a home run. He may yet be a Presidential possibility.

That Amendment to the Constitution will never crawl out from under the avalanche of ballots.

No more murderers of helpless inmates at the Asylums, by brutal attendants.

Mr. Bryan come again, and stay longer we will make it unanimous next time.

The miserable registration certificate must go. The people have said so.

And Cromwell was a close second.

There stood old Rosine.

Now, for Thanksgiving.

Protection in the South.

During the McKinley and Roosevelt administrations the South has enjoyed prosperity as never before. Under the benevolent influences of the Republican Protective Tariff policy new industries have sprung up all over the South thriving cities have been built, new factories have been established and the resources of that section of the country have been developed. A great deal of the cotton produced is now being manufactured in the South, a great deal of the tobacco produced is now being manufactured in the South and a great deal of the lumber from Southern forests is now being made into furniture by Southern factories.

As a result the South has discarded its prejudices against the industrial policies of the Republican party and is now knocking for admission into its ranks with the one proviso that the Republican party will not interfere with a white man's government in the South.

In Memoriam.

In loving Remembrance of Miss Bernice Haden who departed this life on October 31st, at the home of her father and mother Mrs. L. G. Haden. The words "Bernice is dead" cast a gloom over the entire community for she was a sweet girl and one who was loved by all. Only a few days before she died she told her nurse Miss Mollie Martin that she was a christian and was heard singing some good hymn. Ah! little did we think then the next time we would hear Bernice singing she would be singing with the Angels. To her dear father and mother who watched so patiently over her, weep not for Bernice is safe in the arms of Jesus where there is no sickness pain or death and where we can all meet her some day if we will only put our trust in Jesus. Now let us submit ourselves to Gods will He knoweth Best.

Should Study the Tariff.

The Tariff will or should be a leading issue in the campaign next year, and Democrats who undertake to enlighten the people should take the pains and trouble to study the Tariff schedules and the history of the Tariff laws. A knowledge of the subject involves some study, and it does not give much opportunity for oratory of the soaring sort. Perhaps this is why it is so unattractive to those campaign orators who depend on the campaign book for their information, and who if they should meet a well posted man in debate would be at his mercy. Democrats who expect to be among the spell-binders next year should begin a study of the Tariff question.—Nashville "American."

Sad Accident.

Calvin Taylor, the ten-year-old son of Mr. W. B. Taylor, fell off of the boat We Three last Friday afternoon about 2 o'clock and was drowned. His remains were brought to Hartford and taken to Capt. Wm. Foreman's residence where they were kept until Saturday at 2 o'clock p. m., when interment took place in Oakwood cemetery.

The accident occurred while the boat was making the bend just below the mouth of Muddy creek, about two miles West of Hartford. The boy was standing on the deck near the kitchen and when last seen was sliding over the guard of the boat into the river. The alarm was given, and the boat stopped as quickly as possible, but while every possible effort was made to rescue him, he drowned before aid could reach him. His remains were recovered in about five minutes after he sank. All known means were resorted to to restore him to life but to no avail.

SIX CHILDREN AND A POLICEMAN.

Bitten by Mad Dog Before Rabid Animal Was Killed or Restrained.

The Owensboro Messenger says: A shepherd dog belonging to J. W. McCulloch, Jr., went suddenly mad Sunday morning, while in Mr. McCulloch's yard playing with some children, and bit six of them before they were able to get away. They are Hugh Hamilton McCulloch, Helen Groezinger, J. W. McCulloch, Jr., Richard Stowers, Charles Lewis McCulloch and Gamble McCarty. All of them were badly frightened but none of them is seriously injured.

As soon as the children had been bitten Mr. Phillips at Whitesville, was notified and he came immediately with a mad stone and applied it to the wounds made by the dog. Policeman Day was coming in Frederica street a few minutes after the dog had bitten the children and as he arrived at corner of McFarland street, in front of the McCulloch residence, the dog ran at him and bit him. He pulled his revolver and killed the dog with one shot.

Policeman Day had the mad stone applied to his wound and is now able to go about his duties.

SATAN'S MAS- TER AFTER YEARS. Former Trooper of Eleventh Cavalry Shoes Him After Desperate Struggle.

With eyes flashing nostrils distended, ears laid back mouth open and whiskers standing sharply on end, Satan, a vicious horse, gave desperate battle with a brawny blacksmith yesterday afternoon. Satan determined he would not be shod the blacksmith shod him single-handed, but in the tussle, had his left hand literally crushed. Several bones were broken and the smith suffered excruciating pain.

The name of the smith is H. W. Brown, a former trooper in Troop D, Eleventh Cavalry, who was discharged here and took up his trade with Vroman.

Satan is a beauty; a little sorrel weighing scarcely more than 1,200 pounds plump, and full of ginger and fire.

Satan has always rebelled savagely against the iron shoe. His very name was given him on this account. He has never been known to let a smith shoe him without being bound by leather straps until he could not move. Brown is a wiry soldier, erect and solid.

Satan was led in by a common halter and tied to the ring in the side of the wall. With a great leather apron about his waist, Brown took the shoe and approached Satan. Quick as a flash the horse wheeled and both feet shot into the spot where Brown's stomach was—but Brown was quicker in removing it.

Then came into play the scientific blacksmith's tactics, picked up in the United States army, where bad horses are plentiful. Advancing to Satan's side, Brown was ready for the next spring caught Satan sharply in the flank with the point of his elbow; a painful grunt was Satan's reply, and he huddled himself in surprise in a corner.

The smith stooped to lift a hoof and Satan, without moving his foreparts, deliberately twisted himself in a position to let fly one foot, but Brown again escaped by springing aside; this time, however, the Smith trapped the fellow and caught his left foot before he had the leg stiffened. There was a struggle. Brown pressed a knee under the hoof and cruelly pressed down, cramping the leg so that Satan stood still, while the hot iron was pressed against his hoof; then Satan's hoof was released. For the first time he took a good look at the man who dared.

Then the shoe was ready to nail Brown again approached the horse. The same tactics were adopted, except that at the crucial moment Satan, instead of merely twisting himself, crouched and jumped forward as far as his halter would allow and let fly his left foot twice so quickly that it caught Brown's left hand each time. Bystanders heard the bones crush as the cruel hoofs struck. Brown's face went white his teeth set, and quietly asking his helper to take Satan's head the plucky fellow brought the crippled hand to bear the best he could and forcing the little sorrel in a corner deliberately crowned him by the power of his eye and his nerve and nailed both shoes home.

Then it was over the smith was wet with perspiration and almost fainting from pain. He was taken at once to a physician, where his hand was dressed.

Satan showed no more illtemper but walked with his head down from the building as though he were ashamed.—Des Moines Leader and Register.

You can't be well if you have a weak unhealthy, tired out stomach. Neither can you feel good if by some little irregularity in eating you have caused the stomach to get out of order. These little stomach troubles are signs of indigestion, which may and very often does turn into a very bad case of dyspepsia. Don't allow this to go on a single day without doing something to overcome it. Take some good reliable and safe digestant like Kodol For Dyspepsia. Kodol is the best remedy known to-day for heart burn, belching and all trouble arising from a disordered digestion. It is pleasant to take and affords relief promptly. Sold by all druggists. m

Coffin Was Out of Style.

Isaac Coffman a few days ago sold a coffin he had made many years ago. He sold it not because he felt he would have no use for it, but because his wife insisted that it was out of date.

Mr. Coffman is nearing his eightieth birthday. He explained to a friend that he constructed the coffin twenty years ago, at a time when plans for the future had to be made. It was built of chestnut because, as he put it:

"Many's the time I have sat beside a cheery blaze of chestnut logs and heard them crackle and burn merrily. It makes such a homelike blaze that I picked it in preference to other woods.

"It was my desire to make the coffin as cozy as possible, and I rejected the frivolities which so many persons affect in the matter of coffins. In order to have it handy I kept it in the garret.

"But my wife tells me that styles have changed, and, since I have accumulated a little fortune she will not permit me to die unless I consent to get an up-to-date casket. To avoid trouble I agreed to sell the old one."—Hatton (Pa.) Dispatch to the Philadelphia North American.

ACCOMPLISHED THIEVES.

The Bhattes Aim to Attain Perfection in the Art of Stealing.

The Bhattes are an Indian tribe that devote their whole attention to attaining perfection in the art of stealing. From their earliest years their youth are trained to endure the greatest fatigue with comparative ease.

Among other accomplishments which the young Bhattes must acquire by constant practice, the following are indispensable:

He must learn to bleat like a sheep, bark like a dog, crow like a cock, bray like an ass and imitate the movements of all kinds of animals. He must be able to crawl along the ground, run like a goat or a dog or stand on his head with his hind legs extended wide so as to appear in the dusk like the stump of a tree.

In connection with this last mentioned requirement a story is told of a cavalry sentinel who while standing on duty on one occasion heard something move about the head ropes of his horse. On looking round he saw what he supposed to be a large dog, which ran between his legs and nearly upset him. He suspected, however, that some roguery was on foot, and he better to detect it, he placed himself behind what appeared to be the stump of a tree, at no great distance from the spot on which he had been previously standing.

He then hung his helmet on the supposed stump, and, bent on the most attentive scrutiny, he placed his head between the two limbs of the tree, so as, unperceived, to command a direct view of the quarter from which the noise had at first proceeded.

This, however, was too much for the thief (for such in reality was the dog) who, unable to restrain his laughter, and finding his situation somewhat critical, suddenly performed a somersault, upset the astonished soldier, made off with his helmet and was seen no more.—London Telegraph.

A TIP FOR THE CLERK.

Abrupt End of Church Service—The Devil in the Gown.

Among the amusing instances of the humor of the parish clerk that are told is a story of a clerk who went to sleep as the preacher went into the pulpit. That day the parson had prepared a particularly impressive sermon, dividing it, according to custom, into many parts. When the "firstly" was concluded the parson paused for breath, and the clerk, awaking and believing that the discourse had come to an end, pronounced the usual "Arr-men" in a very loud voice.

The congregation arose, and the service ended abruptly. As the squire passed out he slipped a coin into the old clerk's hand, whispering: "You managed that very well, Thomas. I'll give you the same next time."

A vicar who held Calster, with its two chapels of Holton and Clixby, and the living of Rothwell and was nonresident had a curate who was a great smoker and was in the habit of retiring to the vestry to put on the black gown and smoke a pipe before sermon time while the congregation sang a psalm. On one occasion he had an extra pipe, and the clerk hurried in to tell him that the people were getting impatient.

"Let them sing another psalm," said the curate. "They have, sir," replied the clerk. "Then let them sing the One Hundred and Nineteenth," was the laconic reply. Having finished his pipe, he began to put on his gown, but the folds were troublesome. "I think the devil's in the gown," he muttered. "I think he be," replied the clerk dryly.—London Strand.

are caused by Indigestion. If you eat a little too much, or if you are subject to attacks of indigestion, you have no doubt had shortness of breath, rapid heart beats, heartburn or palpitation of the heart. Indigestion causes the stomach to expand—swell, and puff up against the heart. This crowds the heart and interferes with its action, and in the course of time the heart becomes diseased.

Kodol For Dyspepsia

DR. S. D. BLAND of Boston, Ga., writes: "I had been a sufferer for a number of years with Lumbago and Rheumatism in my arms and legs and tried all the remedies that I could gather from medical works, and also consulted with a number of the best physicians, but found nothing that gave the relief obtained from 'DROPS.' I shall prescribe it in my practice for Rheumatism and Kindred diseases."

DR. C. L. GATES Hancock, Minn., writes: "A little girl here had such a weak back caused by Rheumatism and Kidney Trouble that she could not stand on her feet. The moment they put 'DROPS' on the floor she was able to stand. I treated her with 'DROPS' and today she runs around as well and happy as can be. I prescribe 'DROPS' for my patients and use it in my practice."

Don't Neglect It

It is a serious mistake to neglect a weak heart. It is such a short step to chronic heart disease. When you notice irregularity of action, occasional short breath, palpitation, fluttering, pain in chest or difficulty in lying on left side, your heart needs help—a strengthening tonic. There is no better remedy than Dr. Miles' Heart Cure. Its strengthening influence is felt almost at once.

"I have used 10 bottles of Dr. Miles' Heart Cure and can truthfully say it has done me more good than anything I have ever used, and I have tried nearly everything that I know of. The doctor who attended me asked me what I was taking and I told him Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, he said it was not going to do me any good, but it did. I have not taken any for a year now, and while there is occasionally a slight symptom of the old trouble, it is not enough for me to continue the use of the medicine. If I should get worse I would know what to do. Take Dr. Miles' Heart Cure as I did before. I consider myself practically cured of my heart trouble." S. H. DUNN, Livingston, Texas.

A WATCH PROBLEM.

Telling the Time in the Dark With the Hands Removed.

Some time ago a poor old peasant who had invoked the king's wrath was seized by the king's soldiers and placed in a dungeon, says the Scientific American. His majesty was present and the old man searched before being incarcerated. All his personal property consisted of a cheap watch, a small penknife, a shilling in cash and a lead pencil. The poor old man begged for mercy, but his pleadings availed him nothing, and he finally asked to be granted the privilege of knowing the length of his sentence. In reply the king took his knife and watch, which lay on the table, and, after taking the knife and prying the hands off the watch, returned to him his watch, saying, "When you have learned to tell the time correctly by this watch in your dungeon cell you will be liberated." The poor old man, knowing that the king meant a life sentence, staggered into his cell and wept bitterly. Nevertheless he was liberated in twenty-four hours, having accomplished the wonderful task of telling the correct time in the dark with a watch without hands. How did he do it?

A watch derives its power of motion from the recoil of the mainspring, and the recoil is governed by the balance and lever. For instance, if it takes twenty-four full turns of the stem to wind the watch and the watch runs twenty-four hours when fully wound, then for each turn of the stem it will run one hour.

A more simple method is to hold the stem firmly between the fingers and turn the watch around. In winding the watch to run for one hour the ratchet on the mainspring will click, say, thirty times, which proves that this watch runs two minutes for each click of the ratchet which is attached to the mainspring. We will suppose it was 12 o'clock noon when the watch was last wound up and you now wish to know the time. Beginning to wind it up, you count the clicks and find that before it is again wound up fully the ratchet clicks 130 times. By dividing this by thirty we get four and one-third, or four hours and twenty minutes, which added to 12 o'clock makes the hour 4:20 p. m.

While watches are not all exactly alike, the principle is the same, and it is simply a case of mental arithmetic in order to be able to tell the time. But you must always remember the time of the starting point or first winding and after that the time at the last winding.

The above was the method used by the poor old peasant, whose life mostly depended on his release and who was immediately rewarded by the king with his liberty and a life pension.

Death in a New Guise.

In a little village on the Hungarian frontier not far from Presburg a peasant woman recently received 400 kronen ($85) from her husband in America. She promptly deposited it in the local branch of the postoffice savings bank and then the next day went to withdraw the whole amount. The bank official was somewhat surprised and asked for an explanation, when she said that Death had appeared to her during the night and threatened to take her away with him unless she had the 400 kronen ready for him the next night. The gendarmes were communicated with, and when Death made his promised appearance he was found to be very much alive in the person of the local judge. The woman's money, adds our Vienna correspondent who sends the story, is still in the bank, and the judge is in jail.—Pall Mall Gazette.

Denmark Original of Thule?

Was Denmark the original Thule, the world's end land of the ancients, beyond which lay only the sluggish sea? Pytheas of Massilia, who was about contemporary with Alexander the Great, is believed by some to have referred to what we now know as Greenland by this name; but, as there is nothing to show that Pytheas had visited Thule himself, he was probably rather vague about it. Since he seems to have represented it as a land of the midnight sun, others have identified it as Iceland or even Greenland, and the Thule of the Irish monks of the ninth century A. D. was certainly Iceland. But the Thule of Tacitus, which lay near the Orkney Islands, must have been part of the Shetlands.—London Chronicle.

Comparatively Lucky.

A young woman settlement worker who is well known in Boston's social circles observed that one of her proteges had a black eye, and, guessing its source, she wished to be sympathetic and said kindly, after speaking of the woman's eye: "Never mind, Mrs. Mc—, everything will be all right. Your troubles might be worse." "Sure it might be worse," answered the woman philosophically. "I might be like yourself, Miss, with no husband at all."—Boston Record.

Foolish to Quit.

"Why don't you buy it?" asked her husband, who had consented to go shopping with her. "You say it is just what you want, and the price seems to be reasonable, so why waste time looking further?" "Gracious, George, how foolish you talk! I'm not half tired out yet."—Chicago Record-Herald.

Couldn't.

"Tell me the old, old story," she said. "I can't," he replied. "I have made a vow never to repeat a mother-in-law joke."—Chicago Record-Herald.

A MAN AND A MOB.

The Way Lyon Playfair Handled the Lancashire Strikers.

During the great labor riots in Lancashire about the middle of the last century the ready resources of Lyon Playfair saved one of the only two mills which remained open at the time. The government was anxious that these two should continue in action, and supplied the workmen engaged with muskets. But a great force of strikers advanced upon one of the two, and it was obvious that the day was lost. The mob meant to wreck the place. Playfair, who was a friend of the owner, appeared in haste among them, keeping the proprietor out of sight. He put the case frankly to the strikers. The gates of the mill were closed, but the numbers of the strikers made them irresistible; hence it was of no use their all going in and wrecking the place. Let a few of them enter the premises, remove the plugs from the boilers, and thus, without damage to the works, secure their stoppage. Even a disorderly mob, bravely met by a man of courage and tact, will listen. So did this one. Playfair's proposition sounded fair, but might not treachery lie behind it?

He immediately put their doubts at rest by offering himself as hostage. He would accompany the deputation while the others kept guard over the works. The men agreed, and Playfair strolled off with the men chosen. Together they went to the boilers and withdrew the plugs. This stopped the works, but did no other damage. While thus engaged Playfair was able to listen to the story of the leaders, and found many of their demands most reasonable and such that afterward it was possible readily to concede them. The little party returned from their innocent wrecking and found the mob honorably preserving order. The scientist gave them a couple of sovereigns with which the buy food, and they returned him three times three in cheers. There remained only one other mill to close, that at Clitheroe, and upon this the strikers now marched. Again they were thwarted, but this time not by pacific means, but by the might of the military.—St. James' Gazette.

Sal hauled off and knocked him down. Then, looking him out of an inclination to get up, she said, "Now, yuh jest lay thar till I goes an' finds out what dat word 'fascinatin'' means!"

Next day the aforesaid colored gentleman presented the said Sal with a copy of Webster's Dictionary, saying, "I might want ter salute yuh ag'in, so jes please look up the meanin' of some of these heah complimentation terms."

Sal promptly refused to accept the present upon the ground that one would have to know the word in order to look it up.—New York Times.

Gowns From the Undertaker's.

"You'll be astonished when I tell you," said a man who knows, "but it's a fact that dressmakers sometimes send to a fashionable undertaker for a gown when they have a hurry order. There was a time when undertakers carried only shrouds in stock, but in this age of luxury the big concerns have a line of what are known in the trade as 'ladies' fine burial dresses.' Such materials as henrietta, pongee, faille and chiffon taffeta are used for these dresses, and they are made in the prevailing style. The dressmakers know this, and if they can't find what they want in one of the regular shops, they don't hesitate to call on the undertaker."—New York Sun.

RARE HALF DOLLARS.

Good Specimens of Those Dated 1796 and 1797 Are Valuable.

The half dollar is one of the most plentiful of all the series of United States coins, having been issued regularly each year with but five exceptions since the coinage of the denomination first began in 1794. These exceptions were the years 1798, 1799, 1800, 1808 and 1816.

This is the reason why so few of them are rare nowadays and that many specimens of the early dates are to be had for little more than face value in a condition that would indicate they were only a year or two old, instead of dating back nearly a hundred years, as many do.

Altogether there have been issued 235 varieties of the half dollar, and all of the branch mints have struck coins in this denomination, except those of Dahlonega, Ga., and Charlotte, N. C., which were authorized to strike only gold coins.

The very rare half dollars are those dated 1796 and 1797. Of those of 1796 there are two varieties, one with fifteen stars on the obverse around the bust of Liberty, the other with sixteen stars. Each of these two varieties has brought over $100 when in perfect condition.

The 1797 half dollar is the next rarest, and a very fine specimen of this coin has brought as much as $120. The next rarest is the 1838 half dollar struck at New Orleans, with the mint letter "O" under the bust. This coin is worth from $50 to $75. Another rare half dollar was struck at the San Francisco mint in 1866. This coin omits the motto of "In God We Trust," which is borne by all the other varieties of the year, and is valued at $24.—Elder Monthly.

Stars and Storms.

Most people suppose that when the stars appear to lose their liveliness of light and shine without twinkling, as minute bright points in the sky, fair weather is in prospect. Studies lately made in this country seem to contradict this popular belief. It has been found that when the stars are feeble in their scintillations foul weather is at hand. The night before a most violent storm in the south, for instance, the stars hung so quietly in the sky that they seemed to have entirely lost their scintillating power.

This is said to be only one instance among many which show that an unusual steadiness in the light of the stars precedes the appearance of storms.—Minneapolis Journal.

When to Take Tea.

Our conclusions with regard to tea are that its original popular use as a stimulating beverage with breakfast and tea is justified and harmless, but that its indiscriminate consumption with meat foods or during proteid digestion is likely to be harmful. China tea, on account of its less tannic acid content, is less harmful than Indian tea. Our results with ginger beer showed that this beverage was practically without influence upon digestion.—Hospital.

Saved by His Wit.

A noncommissioned officer entering a barrack gate in Dublin was mistaken by the "fresh one" on sentry go, who immediately saluted him. The noncommissioned officer, unaware that his colonel was just behind, returned the salute, a thing not permissible under the circumstances. Arrived at his quarters, he was surprised to find an order for him to attend before the colonel. On presenting himself he was asked how he came to return the salute, knowing full well he was not entitled to it.

Not in the least embarrassed, he promptly answered, "Sir, I always return everything I am not entitled to."

The colonel, taken aback by his ready wit, laughingly dismissed him.—London Express.

A Bit of Kindness.

"The greatest thing," says some one, "a man can do for his Heavenly Father is to be kind to some of his other children." I wonder how it is that we are not all kinder than we are. How superabundantly it pays itself back—for there is no debtor in the world so honorable, so superbly honorable, as love.—Henry Drummond.

ELECTION RETURNS

Tuesday's Battle of the Ballots and the Results Accomplished.

SIX GOVERNORS ELECTED

In the Remaining States the Election Was Confined to Minor Offices.

The Astonishing Feature of the Day's Report Is the Wide Defection of Kentucky Democrats.

Wiping Out a Majority of 27,000 Four Years Ago, Republicans Elect Entire State Ticket.

Tom Johnson Continues to Hold His Place in the Affections of Cleveland People.

New York, Nov. 6.—Tuesday's elections being mainly for local officers, attracted small attention in those states not concerned in the results. Balloting was conducted in thirteen states, in six of which governors were elected.

Probably the most astonishing result was the landslide in Kentucky, which wiped out the 27,000 majority given Governor Beckham in 1902 and gave Augustus E. Wilson for governor and the entire Republican ticket the state by a majority of more than 5,000.

Massachusetts re-elected the entire Republican state ticket headed by Governor Curtis Guild, jr. Henry M. Whitney, the Citizens-Democratic candidate for governor, polled a much heavier vote than Charles Bartlett, the Anti-Merger Democrat.

Pennsylvania elects John O. Sheatz, Republican head of the ticket for state treasurer, by a large majority.

New York state elects Edward T. Bartlett and Willard Bartlett, joint candidates on the Republican and Democratic tickets for justices of the court of appeals, over the candidates of the Independence League (Hearst). New York city elects the Tammany candidates by considerable majorities over the Independence League-Republican fusion candidates.

Frank S. Katzenbach, jr. (Dem.) was elected governor of New Jersey by a narrow margin.

The Maryland contest for the governorship was warmly fought. Crothers (Dem.) was elected for governor by a plurality of about 6,000.

James H. Higgins (Dem.) was re-elected governor of Rhode Island over Frederick H. Jackson (Rep.) by a plurality estimated to be about 1,500, showing a Democratic gain from the plurality of last year.

The election of the Democratic ticket in Mississippi, headed by E. F. Noel for governor, was a foregone conclusion, as there is no opposition ticket.

In Nebraska M. B. Reese, Republican candidate for the supreme court, the most important state office voted on, was elected.

The majority contest in Cleveland resulted in the election of Tom L. Johnson, present mayor, over Congressman Burton.

The American or Anti-Mormon party at Salt Lake City gave the largest pluralities ever given in that city.

At Toledo Mayor Whitlock and the entire Independent ticket is elected. Cincinnati elects Colonel Leopold Markbreit, the Republican candidate for mayor. At San Francisco Dr. Edward R. Taylor, Democratic and good government candidate for mayor, was elected, and District Attorney Langdon, municipal graft fighter, was returned.

KENTUCKY TURNS OVER

Entire Republican State Ticket Elected by Big Majority.

Louisville, Ky., Nov. 6.—Governor Augustus E. Wilson, Louisville; lieutenant governor, William H. Cox, Mayfield; attorney general, James Breathitt, Hopkinsville; auditor of public accounts, Frank P. James, Harrodsburg; treasurer, Edwin Farley, Paducah; secretary of state, Ben L. Bruner, Hardyville; superintendent of public instruction, John G. Crabbe, Ashland; commissioner of agriculture, labor and statistics, M. C. Rankin, Pleasureville; clerk of court of appeals, Napier Adams, Somerset; railroad commissioner, Second district, L. P. Tarlton, Frankfort.

Augustus E. Wilson, Republican candidate for governor, and the entire Republican state ticket have been elected by majorities ranging from 5,000 to 10,000, and the Republicans have carried the city of Louisville for both state and city tickets. James F. Gentry (Rep.) is elected mayor of Louisville by 2,000 majority.

The next Kentucky legislature will have a Democratic majority on joint ballot and presumably for Governor

Beckham for United States senator, although there is already some talk of a bolt of some of the Democrats to defeat him. These are the results of one of the warmest and what seems to have been one of the fairest elections held in Kentucky in many years. This landslide wipes out the 27,000 majority polled by Governor Beckham in 1902.

IN MASSACHUSETTS

Republicans Return Governor Guild and Other State Officers.

Boston, Nov. 6.—The Republicans won a sweeping victory, re-electing Governor Guild and all other state officers. The Republicans will have their usual majority in both branches of the legislature.

The state officers elected were: Governor, Curtis Guild, jr., of Boston; lieutenant governor, Eben S. Draper; secretary of state, William M. Olin; treasurer, Arthur D. Chapin; auditor, Henry E. Turner; attorney general, Dana Malone. Governor Guild's plurality is about 75,000.

CURTIS GUILD, JR.

Governor Guild was opposed for re-election by six other candidates—Henry M. Whitney, Democrat and also running on two sets of nomination papers; Thomas L. Higen, Independence League; General Charles W. Bartlett, Anti-Merger; Hervey S. Cowell, Prohibition; John W. Brown, Socialist; and Thomas F. Brennan, Socialist-Labor.

The total vote of Boston for governor was: Bartlett, 3,446; Guild, 33,442; Higen, 19,993; Whitney, 25,511. Last year the vote was: Guild, 37,143; Moran, 50,671.

In Boston the feature of the election was the contest for district attorney, in which Joseph A. Dennis JOHN B. MORAN.

(Dem.) and Walter A. Webster (Rep.) opposed the re-election of John B. Moran, the candidate of the Independence League. Moran was re-elected by a large plurality.

The complexion of the next legislature will remain about the same as last year, 170 Republicans and 70 Democrats members of the house, and 28 Republicans and 12 Democrats members of the senate.

FUSIONISTS KNOCKED OUT

Straight Democratic Ticket Carries New York County.

New York, Nov. 6.—Republican and Independence League fusion in New York county was defeated by a straight Democratic ticket; the Independence League ticket for associate justices of the court of appeals was overwhelmingly beaten by the identical tickets of the Republicans and Democrats; and there will be a slight change in the make-up of the state assembly. In New York city the Independence League ticket of appeals ticket was defeated 4 to 1 and the league vote up state was light.

In the city interest centered in the county fight in which the Republican and Independence League forces opposed the Tammany ticket. James W. Gerard was elected to the supreme court with a wide margin over L. Y. Bruce. Thomas F. Foley defeated for the sheriff's office the fusion candidate, Max F. Ihmsen of the Independence League.

Edward T. Bartlett and William Bartlett, nominated by both Republicans and Democrats, were elected to the court of appeals over Ruben R. Lyon, a former Bryan Democrat, and John T. McDonough, a former Republican, both of whom were nominated by the Independence League.

The election was unusually quiet and the vote light. There were a considerable number of arrests for illegal voting.

Chairman Parsons of the Republican county committee, who was credited with having arranged the fusion, expressed surprise at the result and placed the responsibility on the financial situation and repeaters. Leaders of the Independence League wing of the fusion unreservedly declared its defeat due to a fraud.

In Kings county (Brooklyn) the Republicans were generally successful, though the Democrats elected District Attorney Clark.

The Republicans lost a few members of the assembly, probably six.

Republicans swept all the candidates with one exception in office at Buffalo.

Elmira returned to the Democratic column so far as the mayoralty was concerned. Republicans elected a city and a county ticket in Albany.

In Upper New York State.

Albany, N. Y., Nov. 6.—The Republicans won in both Albany city and county against a fusion of the Democrats and Independence League and the Citizens' Union. Mayor Charles H. Gaus was elected over Edward A. Durant for a fourth term, and with him the entire Republican city ticket wins by a plurality of about 4,000. The Republican county ticket is elected by a plurality of about 6,000. For the first time in fourteen years the Republicans elected a mayor in Utica, and for the first time in seventeen years the Democrats carried Newburgh. The Republicans were victorious in Ulster county and elected their candidate for mayor in Kingston. In Rochester the Republicans elected the mayor, but the Democrats carried the common council. Despite the protests of the united clergy, the Democrats elected a brewer for mayor. In Troy Mayor Ellis Mann was re-elected by the Republicans with a plurality of 350. The Independence League vote upstate was light. Returns show the vote for the Bartletts in Greater New York to be $69,925, against $11,403 for McDonough and Lyon, the Independence League candidates for the court of appeals.

FOR THE FOURTH TIME

Cleveland Puts the Stamp of Approval on Tom Johnson.

Cleveland, Nov. 6.—Mayor Tom L. Johnson was re-elected for the fourth time as mayor of Cleveland in a hard-fought battle in which the Republican ticket was headed by Congressman Burton, chairman of the house committee on rivers and harbors. Johnson's majority is about 5,000, and the entire city Democratic ticket is carried by 3,000 or more. The Democrats elect a majority of the councilmen. Congressman Burton made considerable gains over the vote of two years ago, when William H. Boyd was the Republican candidate, but the gain was not sufficient to overcome the strong John on lead.

Practically Settled.

Washington, Nov. 6.—Under an arrangement made between the members of the political delegation here from Oklahoma, the question of the federal judgeships has been decided, and Ralph Campbell of McAllister, and John Cotterall of Guthrie, will be recommended to President Roosevelt for appointment to the two judgeships. This practically settles the question as to these positions.

Anti-Mormons Show Their Strength.

Salt Lake City, Nov. 6.—Municipal candidates of the American (anti-Mormon) party have the largest pluralities ever given in this city. Bransford for mayor has about 10,000 plurality over Plummer (Rep.) and Morris (Dem.), whose strength was very evenly divided. The Americans will control the council. They have been in power for the past two years.

By the Usual Majority.

Richmond, Va., Nov. 6.—The election in Virginia was only for candidates to both houses of the legislature. The Democrats will control both houses by the usual majority. In the Eighth congressional district C. C. Carlin of Alexandria (Dem.) was elected to succeed Congressman J. F. Rixey by an overwhelming majority.

Its Initial Victory.

Sacramento, Cal., Nov. 6.—The Lincoln-Roosevelt Republican League won its initial victory in this city, electing its candidate for mayor, Clinton L. White, over M. R. Beard, Democratic incumbent, by a majority of 115 votes.

AT PHILADELPHIA

A Ten Million Dollar Loan Proposition Was the Big Issue.

Philadelphia, Nov. 6.—The election in Philadelphia passed off very quietly, the Republicans electing all their candidates by the usual large majorities. There was more interest taken in the fate of the $10,000,000 loan proposition than in the success of any candidate on the city or state ticket. The city party, the reform organization, which has fought the Republican organization for several years, went on record as against the loan and made a fight against the proposition. The returns show that the loan which had the solid backing of the Republican leaders, carried the city by a majority considerably under that given the successful Republican candidates.

John O. A. Sheatz, the candidate for state treasurer, whose home is in this city, ran strong and his plurality is close to 60,000 in the city.

For the first time since 1904 there was no fusion against the Republican state ticket. The Independent Republican element which voted for the Lincoln party at the last two elections voted for Sheatz, who has been in sympathy with this element. Sheatz has served three terms in the house of representatives and voted against the organization on several important measures advocated by its leaders.

Joel Cook (Rep.) was elected to congress from the Second Pennsylvania district to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of John E. Reyburn, who was elected mayor of Philadelphia last spring.

Light Vote in Pennsylvania.

Philadelphia, November 6.—John O. Sheatz of Philadelphia (Rep.) was elected state treasurer over John G. Harman of Columbia county (Dem.) by a large plurality. This was the only state office voted for, and a light vote was polled in nearly every county. There were large Republican gains for treasurer all over the state, as compared with the vote for this office two years ago.

Higgins Re-Elected.

Providence, R. I., Nov. 6.—James H. Higgins, the Democratic candidate for re-election, led his Republican opponent, Lieutenant Governor Charles Jackson, and was re-elected by a plurality of about 1,700. The next general assembly will be strongly Republican, insuring the re-election of George Peabody Wetmore of Newport to the United States senate.

The Result in Columbus.

Columbus, O., Nov. 6.—Charles Anson Bond (Rep.) was elected mayor of Columbus by a plurality ranging from 5,000 to 7,000. Mr. Bond was opposed by Judge Thomas A. Duncan (Dem.), who was pledged to enforce the midnight and Sunday closing laws.

The Nebraska Judgeship.

Omaha, Neb., Nov. 6.—M. R. Reese, the Republican candidate, has been elected justice of the supreme court by a majority of 12,000 votes.

IN NEW JERSEY

Frank S. Katzenbach, Jr., Defeats Judge John F. Fort.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 6.—Frank S. Katzenbach, jr. (Dem.) has been elected governor by a plurality of about

(Who Was Katzenbach's Opponent.) in New Jersey. It is too early to forecast the complexion of the legislature. The senate will continue Republican. Half of the assembly will probably be Democratic.

WHITLOCK RE-ELECTED

Toledo's Literary Mayor Returned by the People.

Toledo, O., Nov. 6.—Brand Whitlock was re-elected mayor of Toledo by a plurality of about 5,000. The fight was made on the issue of franchise for street railway corporations, along the lines as laid down by Tom Johnson, mayor of Cleveland. Opponents of Whitlock put up an argument of law and morality enforcement. Whitlock is a disciple of Mayor Sam Jones of Golden Rule fame.

The President Votes.

Washington, Oct. 6.—President Roosevelt cast his ballot 84 at 9:55 o'clock Tuesday morning at Oyster Bay, thus registering his choice as to two associate justices of the court of appeals, a justice of the supreme court of the state, member of the assembly, county officers and several proposed amendments to the state constitution. For the president to exercise the elective franchise necessitated eighteen hours and 225 miles of railroad travel, and four minutes in the voting booth. The trip was without incident, and the president reached Washington at 6:16 o'clock Tuesday night.

Had Nothing to Say.

Washington, Nov. 6.—After returning to Washington from Oyster Bay, where he went to vote, President Roosevelt received election returns at the executive office. Secretary Loebe was with the president, but no announcement of any kind was issued from the White House in comment on the returns.

Democrats Gain One.

Trenton, N. J., Nov. 6.—The New Jersey senate for 1908 will stand: Republican, 14; Democrats, 7, a gain of one for the Democrats.

Will Close Thirty Saloons.

Jacksonville, Ill., Nov. 6.—Local option won in the city election Tuesday by 600 votes, and thirty saloons will be closed.

Voted Out the Saloons.

Duquoin, Ill., Nov. 6.—Duquoin voted out the saloons Tuesday. A large temperance demonstration followed the vote.

Findlay Elects a Democrat.

Findlay, O., Nov. 6.—Walker (Dem.) was elected for mayor over Chicago (Rep.) by 300.

PURITY CONGRESS TALKS MARRIAGE.

Delegates Fail to Agree on the Subject and One is Hissed.

Battle Creek, Mich., Nov. 5.—A great question that has split the congress is that of continence in marriage. To-day, following a paper urging this practice, discussion was refused on technical grounds, though several delegates were anxious to debate the point.

That missionaries in foreign countries should either remain single or practice strict continence was a point urged by Miss Belle H. Mix, of Danville, Ia. She cited instances where several missionaries under thirty were wedded to a third wife.

James Osborne, of Albion, was both hissed and cheered when he approved of riding out of town on a rail an eighty-seven year old minister who had married a sixteen year old girl. He urged a law requiring candidates for marriage to be approximately of the same age.

Health is good here now and everybody has plenty of work. There are two band saw mills here and a stove plant. They work all of the time. If this don't go to the waste basket I will write again.
